NEED

The southern region of the Sunshine Coast has a number of areas with significant new housing opportunities available for families of school-age children. This is placing pressure on adjacent local schools and driving a need for local education facilities in line with population growth.

Communities in the region are anticipated to have substantially larger populations over the next 30 years and a number of school sites have been identified and set aside.

PROPOSAL

Additional schooling capacity on a number of pre-identified sites is being explored.

BENEFITS

This proposal is expected to cater for the growing need for school capacity, reducing the need for students to travel further to attend existing catchment schools.
